

Providing Market data and analysis

RIM Intelligence Co (headquarter in Chuo-ku, Tokyo) provides price information and demand/supply trends for international commodities such as crude oil, oil products, gas and petrochemical products to users in various countries. These international commodities fluctuate every day, thus gathering such market information is sometimes difficult and takes a long time and requires huge costs. RIM, since the establishment of the company, met requirements from various users and provided them credible market information such as demand/supply balance and prices. RIM in the past had experience of providing our data to public institutions both at home and abroad.

RIM is willing to receive requests from customers for providing market analysis and for making documents for market analysis. In addition, RIM can provide prices for crude oil, oil products, domestic oil products, bunker, LPG, LNG and petrochemical products on daily, monthly or grade base via Excel Format. You can make good use of evaluating new business plans or factors for fresh business discussions. Following are materials and data that RIM is ready to provide. Elsewhere, RIM also can provide data or market analysts in accordance with your requests. Please do not hesitate to contact us.
